Planning and Advisory Committee: Roles and responsibilities

The planning and advisory policy of VES Business School is important and crucial for its effective functioning, growth, and achievement of its objectives. Here are some specific roles and responsibilities of the Planning and Advisory Committee:

- Strategic Planning: The committee along with the institute's leadership to develop and review the long-term strategic plan. This involves setting the institute's mission, vision, goals, and strategies to achieve them. The committee ensures that the plan aligns with the institute's values and objectives.
- Curriculum Development and Review: The committee advises on curriculum design and content to ensure that the programs offered by the institute are relevant, up-to-date, and aligned with industry trends and demands. They also help identify emerging areas of study and new disciplines that the institute should consider.
- Quality Assurance: The committee along with IQAC monitor the quality of education and services provided by the institute. They participate in reviews, evaluations, and feedback mechanisms to ensure that the institute maintains high academic standards and continuously improves its offerings.
- Student and Faculty Support: The committee advises on measures to enhance the learning experience for students and provides recommendations on faculty development and support. This includes identifying opportunities for research, training, and professional development for both students and faculty.

The Planning and Advisory Committee acts as a bridge between the management institute and the outside world, bringing diverse perspectives and expertise to ensure the institute's continuous growth and success. Their collective input and guidance are instrumental in making informed decisions and shaping the institute's strategic direction.
